

Chief Complaints Officer Annual Report 2016

At Equitable Bank, we take pride in our service and are committed to providing our customers with the best customer experience that we can. The dedicated employees in our business units ensure that the vast majority of complaints are resolved before they reach the Office of the Chief Complaints Officer, the final internal step in Equitable Bank's complaint handling process.

Working closely with both customers and the Bank's relevant business units, the Office of the Chief Complaints Officer independently and thoroughly conducts a full investigation of customer complaints that could not be resolved within the first two steps of the Bank's Customer Complaint Handling Procedures (CCHP). The Office of the Chief Complaints Officer is committed to providing an impartial and unbiased review based on the evidence available to help customers and the Bank reach a fair, reasonable and transparent resolution. We also make recommendations, where appropriate, to improve the Bank's operations, products and services that enhance the customer experience.

We encourage our customers to bring their concerns to the attention of the relevant business units as soon as possible and to follow our complaint handling process. If customers are not satisfied following the Chief Complaints Officer's review, an independent external complaints body can provide further review of the complaint.

Equitable Bank's CCHP provides more information about our external complaints body and other regulatory bodies in Canada and is available in our offices and at equitablebank.ca and eqbank.ca.
